The Daily Courant.

Tuesday, November 8. 1715.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated Nov. 8.

Paris, November 1.

LAST Sunday the General Assembly of the Clergy finished their Session; and two Days ago their Deputies went to Vincennes, to pay their Respects to the King, and assure him of their Fidelity; the Bishop of Auxerre making the Speech. The Earl of Staires had on Wednesday last private Audience of the Regent. The Marshal Duke of Berwick endeavours to obtain, that the Irish Troops who served in Catalonia, and last at Majorca, and are at present in the Rousillon, may come and take Winter Quarters along the Loire.

Paris, Nov. 9. The following Arrets have been lately published.

An Arret of the Council of State, dated Sept. 28. to appoint Commissaries of the Council to state all the Accounts and Recoveries of extraordinary Affairs since the Year 1687. to this time. Ordaining that all the Demands formed on that Account shall be finally adjudged and determined by the said Commissaries; and that any Monies arising from Condemnations that may be made by them, shall be brought into the Royal Treasury; and all the Prosecutions, Seizures, Sales and Adjudications of Goods, Moveable and Immoveable, shall be made before the said Sieurs Commissaries.

An Arret of the Council of State, dated Sept. 28. Ordaining that all Undertakers of Treaties, made during the last War, for furnishing Forage, Beds for Garrisons, Hospitals, and Carriages for Provisions, shall remit within 15 Days after the date hereof, their Accounts and Testimonials, and those of their Deputies and Sub-Undertakers, into the Hands of M. Fagon: And that within the same time those who furnished Provisions shall also bring to him their Accounts and Books, together with those of their Deputies, Sub Undertakers, and others, concerning the Winter-Quarters during the last War, in order to their being reviewed and examined.

An Arret of the Council of State, dated Oct. 19. which Ordains, that the Arrests that have been made against Contractors, shall be executed against their Securities, Widows, Children, Heirs and Executors; and that Sale of their Goods for Deficiencies in their Accounts shall be made before Commissaries appointed.

The Speech made to the King by Monseigneur the Bishop of Auxerre, upon the Conclusion of the General Assembly of the Clergy at Vincennes, Oct. 30.

SIRE,

THE Clergy of France, who distinguish themselves by their earnestness to acknowledge your new-born Authority, come to offer to your Majesty a new Tribute of Fidelity and Submission, Inclination as much as Duty prompting us to this Homage. The happy Seeds of Virtue which God has sow'd in you, and which pierce through the Clouds of Infancy, proclaim to us a Great Prince. These Dispositions, cultivated by a noble and wise Education, will make the Vertues of your August Fathers, and all the Glory of the King your Great Grandfather, revive in your Sacred Person. Our Hopes are still more supported by the Facility you will find in learning the Art of Governing from the Example, and in the Councils of the Prince, whom Right of Birth, and the Concurrence of all our Wishes, has called to the Regency. Already is formed, under his Hand, a Plan of perfect Government: A new Heaven is opened to our Eyes, and the sweet Fruits of Peace, which we saw but at a distance, draw near again to fulfil our Desires, and the Impatience of the Prince who has the care of our Happiness. Of what cannot Superiority of Genius, Extent of Understanding, Exactness of Discernment, and Grandeur of Courage, animated and conducted by unalterable Love to Publick Good, bring to pass? Such are, Sire, the Foundations of your Glory, and the Earnests of our Felicity. May the Author of all Good give a Blessing to so precious beginnings! We beseech him to fill your Mind with all Understanding, to pour into your Heart a tender Love for your People, a constant taste of Piety, and a true Zeal for the Interests of the Church, and that as your Majesty encreases in Age, you may encrease still more in Grace and Wisdom.

London, November 8.

Yesterday arrived a Mail from France.

From the Gazette a la Maine.

Paris, Nov. 13. The Marshal d'Etree, who is President of the Council Marine, and whose great Skill in Sea Affairs, and long Experience in his many Years Service both in the Ocean and Mediterranean, renders him extreamly capable, applies himself with incessant Care and Pains in reforming our Maritime Affairs, especially in restoring the Fleet to a better Condition. A Reform is made in the King's Stables, and no more than 120 Horses are to be kept. The King is not yet come to Paris, but 'tis assured he will be here next Friday. They are at Work in erecting a Mausoleum in the Church of Notre Dame for the late King. M. de Bonac is upon his departure on his Ambassy to Constantinople. It has been resolved upon in the Council of the Regency, that all private Lotteries shall be suppressed, and publick ones erected of 40 Livres per Ticket, to be drawn every Month; the Prizes to be paid half in ready Money and the other half in Bills of Annuities, and the Profits to be applied to the Payment of the Bills on the Receiving Chest.

From the Scots Courant, dated Oct. 31.

Edinburgh, Oct. 31. By an Express from the South Yesterday Morning, we are advised, that the Rebels there were in great Confusion on their having got Notice that General Carpenter with three Regiments of Dragoons, and one of Foot, was marching straight towards Kelso. They drew up on Saturday last in Haick Muir, to consult what March they should take. The English and others commanding the Scots Horse, were for going into England; which the Highlanders declined, alledging that they were few in Number, and were mightily disappointed of the Reinforcement they were to have had upon their coming to the Border, and proposed rather to march back towards the Highlands, in order to favour the Earl of Mar's passing the Forth. Upon this Dispute the Horse surrounded the Foot, in order to force them to march South, whereupon the Highlanders cocke their Firelocks, and said, if they were to be made a Sacrifice of, they would choose to have it done in their own Country. How that Affair terminated we have as yet no Account. But lest the Highlanders should march back towards Forth, Letters are sent to Biggar, Lanerk, Carnwath, Douglass, Hamilton and Glasgow, (being the Roads they must probably pass by) that the Country may be duely apprized of the same.

Letters from Stirling advise us, that the Highlanders who were in Argyleshire, were lying at Castle Drummond, Creiff, and the Head of Strathearn, whether to continue there for the better conveniency of Provisions, or to escorp the Earl of Mar in his March in passing the Forth, is uncertain.

Bridgewater, Nov. 2. The Birth-day of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales was celebrated here with great Joy and Loyalty. Major Hall of the Regiment of the Right Honourable the Lord Windsor's Regiment of Horse that is quartered here, drew out the Regiment and fired three Volleys, and then treated all the Officers with Wine and the private Soldiers with Strong-Beer; himself and his Officers at the Head of the Regiment drank his Majesty King George's Health on their Knees, as also that of their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess, with all the Royal Family, accompanied with the sound of Trumpets, ringing of Bells, and repeated Huzza's, and was followed in it by all the Soldiers: And the Day concluded with Bonfires, Illuminations, ringing of Bells, and all other Marks of Joy.

London, November 8.

Letters from Kendall of the 4th say, that the Rebels from Kelso were marching towards that Place, but had not been joyned by any Part of that Country; and as Lieutenant-General Wills lies ready in Lancashire to observe their Motions with five Regiments of Dragoons, one of Horse, and two of Foot, and General Carpenter with the Forces under his Command being in pursuit of them, it is not doubted but they will be reduced in a short time.

London, November 8.

To prevent the scandalous and mischievous Abuses and Cheats in Play, it is thought proper to give publick Notice of one or two usual Practices of that kind. At Picket, the Dealer places the Stock near him, and whilst you are intent upon ordering your Game, lays down 8 Cards, (the 5 worst uppermost) and takes up the Stock instead of them, and so puts 5 bad Cards out of his own Hand into yours, taking in the good ones belong'd to you in the Stock. Or a Sitter-by looks in your Hand, and by giving 1, 2, 3 or 4 treads upon your Adversary's Foot under the Table, (Signifying Clubs, Diamonds, Hearts or Spades, according to the Alphabetical Order of the first Letter of those Words) gives him Notice what Suit to go in for, or to play.

A Person that is in want of a considerable Sum of Money in present, and that has a large Estate in Reversion expectant upon the Life of his Grandfather, is ready to treat with any who desire to make that Use of their Money. Upon an Advertisement in this Paper, they shall be met at Time and Place appointed thereby, (the Charge of which shall be repaid, if on treating we don't proceed.) The Terms made shall be advantagious, and the Risque to be run shall be little or none at all.
